Interesting Conjoint Programs In Both Wards

CONJOINT MEETING AT FIRST WARD

The Conjoint meeting at the Raymond 1st Ward Sunday evening was a night of culture, and the following speakers were heard; President T. Geo. Wood spoke on "Culture Through Religion," William Redd's topic was "Home, the Cradle of Culture" and Miss Dorothy Nurse spoke on "Culture through Music."

Five special musical numbers were rendered by soloists and choruses which are participating in the musical festival at Lethbridge today, and all five were directed by Miss Velma Nalder. A very enjoyable program was appreciated by a large audience present.

MAYOR ELTON AT SECOND WARD

Mayor D. H. Elton was the speaker at the Raymond 2nd Ward Sunday evening last at Conjoint meeting and gave a very illuminating, instructive and entertaining address on the subject of "Music." "Dave" with his fund of poetry to recite and his vein of humor, is a favorite wherever he goes, and he won his audience from young to old in the first two minutes of his talk last Sunday evening.

The Laycock family of Lethbridge were present and contributed a number of musical selections, both vocal and instrumental. The entire program was very greatly enjoyed by the large audience present, despite the fact that a spring rain was falling during the evening.

NEWS NOTES

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Strong, Tuesday, May 3rd a baby boy. Mother and son are doing fine.

Tommy Allen is getting around again after his recent operation. It will be some time before he is able to work though.

Town workmen started Saturday to pull dirt in to level up the Swimming Pool grounds. The wet weather has prevented any work being done previously.

Geo. Brewerton after he ordered a load of coal for the store on Tuesday, said "it seems odd to order coal for heating purposes in May, but it's too cold to be without a little heat."

THE JOY OF LIVING

If nobody smiled and nobody cheered,
And nobody helped us along,
If each, every minute, looked after himself,
And the good things all went to the strong,
If nobody cared just a little for you,
And nobody cared for me,
And we all stood alone, in the battle of life,
What a dreary old world it would be.

Friends we have made, and the life is sweet just because of the things which in common we share;
We want to live on, not because of ourselves,
But because of the people who care.
It's giving and doing for somebody else—
On that all life's splendor depends,
And the joy of this world, when we've summed it all up,
Is found in the making of friends.

Our Edmonton Letter

(By T. B. Windross)

Edmonton, Alberta — Girding loins for what they hope to be a dominion-wide political appeal, the chief mechanics of the Social Credit party machine organized last week, in a meeting at Edmonton, the Western Social Credit association and prepared to organize a similar association in the east 'soon.'

The first aim of the organization, apparently, was to make a bid for power in Saskatchewan in that province's general election, which is to be held this year. There was no public mention in the party's circles, of the thorough trouncing which Social Credit took in the last British Columbia election, or of the consistent and persistent reports that the membership in the Alberta Social Credit league has dropped by about 50 per cent in the past 18 months.

It was considered significant, however, that the chief officers of the Western association, although it is to spread over the four western provinces, were all but one chosen from the Alberta cabinet. Premier Aberhart was appointed the party leader for the four provinces, as a kind of generalissimo. Provincial Treasurer Solon Low was named president of the association; Municipal Affairs Minister Maynard was named secretary; Provincial Secretary E. C. Manning was named chief organizer for the four provinces; and Rev. E. H. Hansell, Social Credit member of the commons for Macleod, who has always been close to the Alberta provincial administration, was named treasurer. In Edmonton it was considered surprising that although there are claimed to be strong Social Credit organizations in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia not one of these provinces could be represented in the party's inter-provincial hierarchy.

It was provided, however, in addition, that four vice-presidents, four assistant treasurers and four provincial organizers were to be added to the strength of the association's executive personnel in the future, and it was supposed that each province would be represented in each category.

The board of strategy of the party's political organization in Alberta was established at full strength again over the weekend when G. W. Powell, the English 'social credit expert' sent to Edmonton by Major Douglas was placed again on the provincial payroll as 'technician,' along with L. D. Byrne, on the Social Credit board's lineup. Powell was released last Friday from Fort Saskatchewan jail by order of the dominion government, on ticket-of-leave after serving less than half of his six month sentence for criminal libel. There was no immediate indication, at least that the dominion intended to implement the recommendation of the judge who sentenced Powell that he be deported. It was believed however, that Powell would be leaving Alberta soon to return to England of his own accord. In the meantime Joseph Unwin, M.L.A. who served half of a three-month sentence on the same charge of criminal libel, is planning a lecture tour of various parts of Canada, including his own constituency of Edson.

In the news last week was a shining example of the idea of economy in government—and in

Local Boys Do Well In Finals

Two Provincial Winners From Here

Raymond mitt artists made a fine showing at the Finals held in Cardston last Friday and Saturday nights. Headed by J. G. Snow, President of the local Athletic Association, and 'Curly' Sloan the boxing coach, and accompanied by quite a crowd of fans, the leather slingers met the pick of the province, and considering the short time that many of the boys had been boxing certainly made a good showing. Without too much detail we will list the local boys who took part and how they fared.

FRIDAY NIGHT

135 lbs.—Francis Coombs lost to Ken Harris of Medicine Hat in a very close decision.

80 lbs.—Jerry Witbeck won over H. Brewer of Lethbridge.

126lbs, novice—T. Takahashi lost on a close decision to Ken Martin of Red Deer.

135 lbs. Open—Shigero Kawasaki lost to A. B. Lust by a very unpopular decision. The crowd favored Shigero and a five minute riot followed the announcement of the decision.

SATURDAY NIGHT

80 lbs.—Jerry Witbeck won the Provincial title in this class when he defeated Robert Galvin of Turner Valley.

126lbs Open—Verl Meldrum lost to Webb Frizzelle of Lacombe by the T.K.O. route. Frizzelle had too many boxing tricks for Verl who took a lot of punishment.

160 lbs. Open—Curly Sloan, our popular coach, won the Provincial crown in his class when he outpointed Ev. Neiman of Medicine Hat. Curly's experience was to much for the Gas City boy.

So with high praise for the treatment they received in Cardston our scrappers came home with two provincial titles and a lot of good experience. Congratulations boys.

Z. W. Jacobs, Solicitor of Cardston was a Raymond visitor Friday.

Rain again Wednesday afternoon & night stopped field work for a further period.

Frank R. Taylor and his Male Quartette were in Welling Sunday evening last and contributed three numbers to the Welling Conjoint program. Frank also spoke on the topic "Culture Through Music," and Paul H. Redd spoke on "Culture Through Religion." Alvin Bullock spoke on the M.L.A. theme and a vocal duet was rendered by Misses Carol and Melba Wilde. This was an exchange program, Welling having helped out at the First Ward a month ago.

The put-put-put of the tractor will be heard night and day when the ground dries so that cropping can commence again.

The ice cream machine and the fixtures for Raymond's new refreshment stand in the Security block arrived Tuesday. They were installed and connected on Thursday. Watch for the opening date.

Mr. Jack Merrick, Singer Sewing Machine Agent for the Raymond district, held a sewing school in the Raymond 2nd Ward Church last week from Monday to Friday inclusive. A large number of women were present and received a great deal of practical good from the instructions received in the care and operation of sewing machines, and also how to use them to advantage.

Grasshopper Threat This Year

Much of Southern Alberta and a large portion of Central Alberta is threatened with the grasshopper plague this coming summer and warning maps have been issued by the Federal Department of Agriculture showing the prospective degree of infestation in the different districts.

It would appear that the most threatened area is between Calgary and Lethbridge with an oval district extending between High River and Champion where a very severe outbreak may occur. A smaller area north of Claresholm is similarly threatened and indications of heavy infestation are shown in the Milo Arrowwood country.

Varying degrees of infestation are indicated from Tofield extending east and west thru Stettler swinging west to Olds & then south along the foothills right to the United States border. In the eastern side of the province, hopper eggs are present from twenty-five miles south of Lloydminster down to the Cypress Hills. A large area from Redcliff to Brooks on the east and west and from Hoville Post Office to the Bow River, north and south, is indicated as free from grasshoppers.

Agricultural experts are recommending that farmers in threatened areas take the following precautions:

1. Every few days after May 10th, examine carefully all roadsides, headlands and weedy or abandoned fields and report discovery of any grasshoppers immediately to the municipal secretary.

2. Land to be summer-fallowed in 1938, should be cultivated shallowly early in the spring to bring egg pods to the surface where wind and sun may destroy them.

3. Do not sow stubble land. If absolutely necessary to seed stubble it should be ploughed deeply.

4. Plough four rod guard strips along all stubble fields. Cultivate such fields from the outside towards the centre and poison the hoppers in the centre strip.

5. Grasshoppers feed only when the temperature is between 68 and 90 F. in the shade so poison bait should be spread while the sun shines.

The development of grasshopper plagues depend a great deal on the weather. A cold wet spring increases mortality among the young grasshoppers while fine weather gives them a good start in life.

The extensive damage that can be done by grasshoppers is illustrated by the experience of 1934 when the loss due to grasshoppers in Western Canada was fixed at 14,000,000 bushels.—Wheat Pool Budget.

Special Council Meeting Held

The Town Council sat as a Court of Revision last Monday evening, listening to a number of appeals from Corporations and private citizens against this year's assessment.

After listening to one or two property owners it was moved and passed that the property owners select a man, the Town Council a man, and these two select a third to investigate complaints and bring in a report.

A slight concession was made to two of the local elevators and one much discussed business levy was further discussed and decided on.

As this was a special meeting no bills were passed nor reports presented. It was 1:30 when the meeting adjourned.

BIBLE LECTURE SUNDAY

The Rev. A. A. Lytle, Sec. of the British and Foreign Bible Society for Southern Alberta, will give an historical lecture on the Bible, which will be illustrated by lantern slides, at the Raymond United Church at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 8th. A silver collection will be taken.

This non-denominational Bible lecture is very interesting and instructive, and all who can are urged to attend.

NEWS NOTES

There are 1,055,551 Boy Scouts in the British Empire. This is an increase of 43,615 members over the figures of 1936 census.

Lloyd MacPhee made a business trip to Eastern British Columbia over the week-end returning to Raymond on Monday.

In Germany, it is estimated that insects destroy one out of every five apples, one of every ten grains of wheat, and one of every 13 potatoes.

Awelcome home program directed by S. B. Card, was given last Sunday evening in the Raymond First Ward in honor of Elder Isaac B. Roberts who has recently returned from the Galifornia mission where he fulfilled a short term mission.

Stan Jones who made a trip to the Rosemary district last week to look for land and a location for a home returned over the week-end. While we have not talked personally with Stan we understand that he is quite impressed with the new district and is moving there as soon as he can get arrangements made.

A very enjoyable party was held at the Bishop Walker home Friday night by the members of the Junior Genealogical class. Some weeks ago a dead line was set for work on the Book of Remembrance, and the class divided. This party was given by the losers to the group which showed greatest progress in their book. Games and refreshments occupied the time.

WILLING TO GIVE

An income-tax collector had died, and a subscription was raised in a Wall Street office for a wreath. The boss promised $5. A few days later one of the clerks called for the money. The chief handed him a $10 note.

"You want $5 change, sir," said the clerk. "No," growled the boss; "keep it and bury another."

Cold weather, with rain enough to keep farmers off the land is holding up cropping operations greatly. Wednesday, a local elevator man estimated that not more than 10 per cent of the wheat acreage in the district had been seeded.

Monday's soaking rain, bringing nearly an inch and a half of moisture held up work on the land, and then Wednesday came with another storm in the afternoon & during the night, which makes it look as though nothing will be done this week. However, after so many years of dry weather, the moisture is very welcome and with modern farming equipment, it will not take long to get the crop in when the rains cease for a few days.

Beet seeding was well under way, and with the land in good condition, and ready for the drill, the remaining acreage will go in pretty fast.

Hay fields are looking fine and pastures are improving every day. Except for the slight delay in seeding operations crop prospects are excellent.

Local Girl Sees as Story Writer

A short time ago Miss Marie O'Brien had the honor of having a story she had written appear in the Improvement Era, and she subsequently received a remittance for the same. She was very modest about it and had not told a word until L. L. Palmer made her admit it was her story.

That was good news, but imagine her surprise this week when a letter from Elder Anna Evans, now in Holland contained part of a copy of the Mission "Star" with Marie's story translated into Dutch for the people of that mission.

We congratulate Marie on her achievement and hope this will not be the last of her efforts in the literary field.

THE SCHOOL FAIR

We wonder, if as citizens and parents we are doing our share to make the local School Fair, held each year, the success that it ought to be. Many dollars worth of good is distributed each year to the boys and girls for the school fair, and from personal observation over a number of years there is but a small percentage of these seeds ever matured for exhibition at the fair. The result of this is a gradual loss of interest in the fair. Is this a good condition.

Throughout all ages of history the basis of permanent and sound civilization has been the pastoral peoples of the world. The Scandinavian countries have probably set the finest example of thrift, solidarity and contentment of any people we know of, and they have always been & are now a pastoral people. The tribes of Israel as a whole have always been tillers of the soil. We are of the opinion that a search of ancient and medieval races would further bear out this truth.

In view of this, and the trend of world affairs today, it appears that we should all be interested in teaching our boys and girls to be tillers of the soil, and to be producers of the necessities of life with their own hands. In the rapid rise and fall of empires during the past two decades, a man's job has never been secure even from one day to the next. The lack of profitable occupation around one's own home has contributed more than any one factor to the growing spirit of discontent and dissatisfaction with government's, employers, neighbors and friends. True there are millions in cities where any pursuit close to the soil is impossible. But, thanks to Providence we are not in that condition. We have every advantage. There are few gangsters who come from farms where they have had their responsibility as boys in helping to make the living. On the other hand, there are many executives in business today who spent their boyhood days with a hoe in the corn field or the potato patch, and in that environment, close to the fountain of all truth dreamed the dreams and builded the castles that led them to positions of wealth power and influence in the industrial centers of the world.

So, while these things may sound like fairy tales, history bears out the truth of them, and while we are spending time with the boys and girls, teaching them not only to be good husbandmen of crops but also to love the soil and nature, we are also breeding in them unceasingly the seeds of dependability, ambition, determination to succeed and a keen sense of fair play, all of which are greatly needed in our complex civilization of today.

Long after the sting of defeat or the glamour of victory in exhibition have been forgotten, the lessons learned in God's great outdoors will remain with the men and women of tomorrow as a ballast to their activities amongst their fellows and a balance to their better selves. In helping the School Fair, we are helping ourselves, through our children to the greater good.

CONTROL OF CANADIAN THISTLE ON IRRIGATED LAND

By all odds the best method is to seed down to alfalfa. Three years in alfalfa will completely destroy Canadian thistle except possibly on the ditch banks where the mowing machine can not cut them off cleanly. The procedure for obtaining a good stand of alfalfa is covered below. Alfalfa seedlings should not be permitted to become dry or a stand may not be secured in the thistle patches.

To destroy Canadian thistle without seeding down to alfalfa is more difficult. The orthodox recommended procedure is a black fallow, but experience has shown that although this is sometimes effective it often fails on irrigated land. Recent experiments at the Regina Sub-station shows that a black fallow begun as late as July 20th is as effective as a fallow begun earlier in the season and involves considerably fewer cultivations during the summer. Experience at Lethbridge supports this statement and we recommend the following procedure: Stubble in oats during the month of April so that they will head out at the time the thistles come in to bloom; cut the crop for green feed and start a black fallow immediately (which means the latter part of July) and maintain the same until frost in the fall.

CONTROL OF WILD OATS AND GREEN FOXTAIL ON IRRIGATED LAND

Many farmers have successfully kept wild oats under control by fall ploughing combined with fall irrigation and then delaying seeding in the spring until the wild oats have started to grow and then destroy them before the grain crop is seeded. The procedure for controlling Canadian thistle is applicable also to wild oats.

In dealing with green foxtail the orthodox method of control is as follows: "Continued clean cultivation until late in the season to prevent seed formation."

school. "Are results worth the price?" That's the question Dr. Henry C. Link, psychologist and author, asks after presenting the above figures in the current Rotarian Magazine.

"The free education which parents so often force on their children," says Dr. Link, "may be a source of more harm than good. The ideal educational program would be one in which all children, rich and poor, had to work to pay at least part of their expenses, especially during the summer months. Some colleges already follow this plan, with very satisfying results."

"In the absence of the ideal program, parents can make further education of their college student contingent upon his getting a job during the summer, doing some paying work at school, or, at least, keeping his expenses to an absolute minimum. If a student has time for nothing but his studies, and even so finds college work difficult, then probably he would do better to get a job."

"The longer a young person postpones the getting of a job, the less likely he is to find it, or the less fit he may be for it when he does find it. This is a matter of personality, not economics, and personalities make economies, not, as we are so often told, the reverse."

INSTALLMENT TWENTY-TWO

Monty Wallace has just arrived in California, having broken the East-West cross country airplane record. Natalie Wade, mis taken by him for a newspaper reporter, writes the exclusive account of Monty's arrival, and succeeds in securing a trial job with a paper in exchange for the story. Natalie becomes attached to Monty.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, a wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking round the world plane for Monty. Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Natalie discovers that Sunny is jealous of her friendship with Monty, and that she is trying to prevent them from being alone. After driving to a mountain resort with Sunny and Jimmy, Monty again declares his love for Natalie.

Sunny attempts to drive Natalie from Monty's attention by climbing a high wall. She almost loses her balance and is pulled back by Monty. Jimmy later asks Natalie to consider his love for her if she refuses Monty.

Natalie induces Monty to set out with her in an airplane search for two missing aviators. At dusk Monty lands the plane in the open country, where he and Natalie must spend the night.

Resuming the search in the morning, they finally locate the fliers. Natalie wires the story to her paper. That night at dinner, Marion announces a non-stop round the world flight, with Monty piloting the new plane, 'Sunny Marion.'

Monty's plan is to have ten re-fuelling stations along the route, where pilots are to go aloft to refuel his plane. Monty flies with Natalie to New York, where he will begin the flight eastward. They are followed by Jimmy and Sunny.

The day before the flight, Monty once more declares his love to Natalie.

With the coming of dawn, not far away. Lookouts were they knew that Monty could posted on the windsock tower but Mack Hanlon telephoned from the office half an hour before he was sighted to say that the fleet of planes had turned South just beyond Los Angeles and that Monty was flying with them. Natalie's heart thumped madly as she stood beside Jimmy and Sunny searching the sky for his plane.

Glory was in the morning and glory seemed to fill her whole being at the thought that there was nothing but an ordinary small light to keep her from Monty's arms.

Before any of the others, she saw the ship. It was a tiny, high black speck in the sky and beneath it roared twenty or more looping and cavoring in glee ships flying in formation or at the success of the world flight.

She saw when the black plane set its nose flatly toward the earth. She saw that the landing would be in the teeth of the west wind unless Monty dropped in cross-wind as he sometimes did.

She stood there in the crowd, Natalie Wade, no longer just a girl down on her luck but known from coast to coast as a news writer and waiting for the kiss of the greatest flier since Lindbergh.

Already she had written the draft of her story on the completion of the flight. There would be only the lead to add and Mack Hanlon would take care of that.

The black plane plunged out of the sky. Suddenly its wheels spun on the ground with the tail skid dragging dust from the hard earth.

Cheer on cheer rose, for the flight had been completed. The crowd rushed forward. But the black plane taxied straight on. Natalie was flying across the space between.

Monty dropped to the ground and clasped Natalie in his arms. A breathless moment, then throwing his helmeted head back Monty laughed his old-time care-free laugh.

"How are you, Girl he greeted, still looping his strong arm around Natalie's shoulders. 'I've come around the world, thinking of this moment all the way!'

"And I've been thinking too," joined Natalie, "and hoping that you'd come to me just as you are—this minute."

"Hey Mont!" broke in a voice. The two lovers suddenly realized they were the target for hundreds of eyes. After all, this was the triumphant ending of a world flight. The airport was jammed with an admiring throng. Natalie turned her gaze quickly to Monty, and with a fluttering smile to cover her embarrassment bade Monty receive the plaudits due him.

"I'll only take a minute, Dear" assured Monty, giving Natalie an affectionate pat on the shoulder. He turned to face a battery of news cameras and reporters, pencils poised, eager to catch a first hand account from the hero of the hour. Monty inured to inter-views spoke briefly, answered routine questions rapidly. In a few moments he was back at Natalie's side. A throng of news-hawks followed, unwilling to leave their prey. Monty turned angrily.

"Can't you fellows leave us alone" he roared. "Can't you see I want a little privacy? You've got your story—beat it and run it!"

"Careful, Dear," cautioned Natalie. They're only trying to do their job. Remember, the papers can make you—and they can break you too!"

"All right," said Monty reluctantly, "but why can't they leave a fellow alone—especially at a time like this! I want to be with you," he added, smiling into Natalie's upturned face. They kissed.

"Where's Sunny?" queried Monty suddenly. The jarring note made Natalie wince. "They came to the field with me," explained Natalie, "now that you mention it, it does seem strange they haven't been on hand."

A quick glance around the thronged circle of onlookers failed to reveal the two familiar figures.

"I can't believe that they'd stay away at a time like this!" insisted Natalie.

"Let's get out of here anyhow," Monty said, catching her arm in his.

The crowd followed the two as they slowly pushed toward where Jimmy's car had been parked when Natalie, Sunny and Jimmy had arrived at the airport. When they came to the spot the car was gone.

The mystery deepens," exclaimed Natalie with a little laugh. "Looks like we'll have to walk," Monty added with mock seriousness. "I just came off a round-the-world flight, but I haven't cab fare in my pocket. Cracked my last quarter for cigarettes in Vladivostok!"

Natalie's thoughts were not of a comic turn, but the incongruity of Monty's remarks struck her. She joined him in laughter while nervously aware of the press of onlookers around them. At last a squad of small boys broke through the straining police cordon.

WHAT TO EAT

TO BE HEALTHY

NUMBER THREE

Vitamin A is essential for the health of the mucous membranes of the eyes, nose, throat, sinuses, bronchial tubes, oesophagus, stomach, intestinal tract, and the genito-urinary passages. The lack of Vitamin A in the diet causes eye trouble and tendency to infections.

The following foods give you vitamin A: Pasteurized milk, cream and butter, colored vegetables such as spinach, carrots, leaf lettuce, eggs, liver and kidney.

The distribution of vitamin A is very wide, and it is also very abundant. If your diet contains a pint of pasteurized milk a day, butter, and two vegetables besides potato, as well as an egg a day, you will certainly be receiving an adequate supply of vitamin A.

Vitamins B1 and B2 are necessary for the nerves, skin, and the normal burning up of sugars and starches in the body.

The lack of vitamins B1 and B2 results in neuritis. A lack of these vitamins also results in constipation.

The following foods give you vitamins B1 and B2: Most vegetables and fruits, particularly peas, beans and lentile, whole grain cereals, egg yolk, liver and kidney.

Vitamin B1 is widely but not abundantly distributed. We must watch carefully to see that we get an adequate supply of it. This vitamin is abundant in wheat germ and yeast. Unfortunately, vitamin B1 is water soluble. If an excessive amount of water is used in cooking, as high as 90 p.c. of this vitamin may be thrown away in the cooking water.

In the next article in this series of "What to Eat to be Healthy," we will discuss vitamins C and D.

Watch this series for complete and authentic information on what to eat and where to find it.

Questions concerning Health addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

CREDIT

It belongs to you—the community does not own it.

BANKS live by lending.

That is their major source of income, their principal business. They are always on the lookout for good risks. They have to avoid poor ones.

Let us give an instance. Suppose, say, a man seeking a bank loan, is known to the banker as having no business capacity to carry out the purposes for which he wants the money. He is not credit-worthy—he has accumulated nothing, has no stake.

The banker, anxious though he is to make loans, knows there is not the remotest chance that this man would succeed in his purpose and tells the would-be borrower that the bank cannot take the risk.

But this man has a friend—a man who has accumulated something and has a stake. Hearing of his neighbour's difficulty, he goes to the bank and urges that the loan be made.

"Whose money would you have me lend him?" asks the manager. "You have a deposit here. Would you lend your own money?"

"Not on your life," retorts Mr. Blank. "Lend him the bank's money."

The bank manager, as custodian of this very man's own money, then takes pains to point out that what the substantial citizen is really expecting, is that the bank should make a loan which the citizen's own common sense and caution would compel him to refuse.

Before such a man leaves the bank he usually agrees that he had expected the bank to lend where he himself would be unwilling. Banks have no magic source of credit.

Here is the core of the whole business of a bank's extending credit. Because of the bank's responsibility to its depositors it can make loans only where repayment is reasonably certain.

To obtain a loan from a bank a borrower must have credit of his own. Seldom, if ever, is his credit spendable. You cannot spend cattle, goods in process of manufacture, uncut fish, uncut timber, or wheat in the granary.

The bank has credit too. Millions of small depositors have, in effect, lent it their money. A percentage of this money, based on bank experience of withdrawals, is kept in cash, some more in items of a cash nature, more still in assets quickly convertible into cash, and more in safe investments such as marketable government and other bonds. Based upon this, the bank can extend credit.

Because people have confidence in bank credit, and because every promise-to-pay of a chartered bank is redeemable in cash, on demand, or on a fixed date, this form of credit is spendable.

In the case of the borrower, credit is the personal possession or attribute of the individual—you yourself, if you are the borrower—in character, goods, possessions, integrity, ability and willingness to repay.

Your credit is not social, in the sense of belonging to the community. When you have credit, it is your own just as your money in a savings account is your own. The people at large have no conceivable claim upon it.

Who monetizes credit?

The answer for all practical purposes is this: The man who owns and therefore controls his credit takes the initiative. The bank does not go to him. He goes to the bank and asks it to enable him to obtain credit in spendable form in exchange for his own unspendable credit. The bank does so; and charges him a rental in the form of interest, until he repays.

What happens when he secures this credit in spendable form?

He spends it.

He pays the wages of labour, the cost of raw materials and of manufacture; the cost of seed, of feed for hogs and cattle, or the expenses of cultivating and harvesting; of buying bait or catching fish; of cutting trees or transporting goods.

The whole banking process is made possible by the concentration and cautious handling of other people's money.

Banks simply dare not risk their own solvency and so jeopardize the safety of their depositors' funds, by making loans to people who have neither character nor credit—nor by making loans even to those who have both, without taking every reasonable precaution to ensure repayment.

A COMMENTABLE COMMENT

A PARABLE ON GOVERNMENT—There is a prayer used in the Church of Scotland before the opening of Parliament which runs something like this: "Bless, O Lord, the two Houses of Parliament now assembled and overrule their deliberations for the people's good." Overrule, mark you, not guide or direct, the assumption being that they are almost certain to be wrong. I would take these words as a parable, for they might well be our attitude toward life and that law and government without which life cannot be lived. We dare not overrule authority, since we know it is our own creation, but we dare not under-value it, because we realize its supreme practical need. So we obey it and we pray for it.—Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, in The Rotarian Magazine.

OUR EDMONTON LETTER

the spoils of office to those office-holders who take them.
Premier Aberhart was provided with a new limousine, valued at close to $4,000 although how much it actually will cost Alberta taxpayers has not been divulged. The premier himself told newspapermen he had nothing to say about the car. It is a beautiful two-and-a-half ton model, more than 18 feet long, fitted with a twin radio, a telephone from back seat to front, and driven of course by a government chauffeur.

Mrs. Aberhart was using it during the afternoons last week for social calls and shopping expeditions, when the premier was not using it to be driven from his hotel suite to the legislative buildings and back again.

At the same time, it was estimated that the taxpayers of Alberta have been charged more than $20,000 spent and voted during the past two years for that and other automobiles provided for the exclusive use of Alberta cabinet ministers. Under the Alberta system, each of the eight ministers has been provided with an automobile purchased within the past two years for his exclusive full-time use, and also with the operating costs. In sharp contrast is the Saskatchewan system; for all nine ministers their just two automobiles are provided, and any minister must show that he is using the car on strictly government business before he is given the use of it. The Alberta appropriations for purchase and maintenance of cabinet cars do not include, of course, the regular out-of-town travelling expenses of ministers has totalled another $17,000 in estimates passed during the past two years.

Economy, of course, is being exercised in the closing of Government house and the eviction of the lieutenant-governor, who last October reserved assent to three bills passed by the legislature. On Saturday Hon. W. A.
Fallow, who as minister of public works is responsible for Alberta's vice-regal mansion, said that he had not yet had a chance to inspect it to see what use could be made of it. It was then more than a month since the legislature decided to evict the lieutenant-governor but that the lieutenant-governor would have to vacate it by Tuesday, and that all services such as water and light were being cut off from that day.

Public protests against the seven-per-cent production tax which the legislature approved for the government, to apply against all farm produce, continued last week. Some members of the legislature who sought to justify it in addressing meetings in their constituencies, were given cool receptions, and some members of the cabinet prepared for a strategic retreat on the matter by saying that after all the tax need not be seven percent—it might be less. At the same time, it was announced that the government expected to refer the act to the supreme court of Alberta in June for a decision as to the legality of the tax, and there were indications that a strong proportion of the Social Credit members were hoping fervently that the court would rule the act ultravires.

On Saturday the dominion bureau of statistics placed the value of Alberta's farm product ion during 1937 at $172,488,000.
If the production tax had been applied last year therefore, Alberta farmers would have had to hand over to the provincial government $12,074,160 which is more than two-thirds of the amount of the total provincial budget, including all other taxes.

On that basis, one of two things would happen. Either provincial expenditures would be increased in order to spend that new $12,000,000 taken from farmers, or else the taxes, on other basis would be lessened in view of farmer's generosity. Perhaps the government would decrease the taxes on corporations; it might even cut down the taxes on banks, or else find itself collecting more money than even the Social Credit board could spend for propaganda.
